Strategic Partner Information

Join us and become a strategic partner of the premier organization for specialists in the field of the Diabetic Foot

Welcome to the American Limb Preservation Society

The American Limb Preservation society (ALPS) is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization whose vision and goal is to eliminate preventable amputations over the next generation. DFCon is now the official annual conference of ALPS and a driving initiative in helping us work toward this vision.

ALPS believes that an interdisciplinary approach is the way forward to saving limbs and improving patient outcomes. We aim to serve as an interdisciplinary bridge between varied groups and organizations which play a role in lower limb preservation. In doing so, we strive to educate and empower healthcare personnel to engage and work with interdisciplinary teams to help ensure high-quality and patient-centered outcomes.

Interdisciplinary efforts also contribute to the continuation of development of research and treatments for patients with limb threatening conditions. Through the programs of ALPS and the education and scientific content at DFCon we will continue to advance the science, clinical care and advocacy of limb preservation and work to develop the next generation of clinicians, scientists, and clinician scientists in the field.

ALPS was founded to bring like-minded clinicians from different disciplines together to advance patient care and improve limb salvage outcomes.

We hope to welcome you on board!

"The American Limb Preservation Society and DFCon are pleased to collaborate with innovative corporate partners who understand the importance and sense of urgency for patients living with the risk of amputation due to diabetic foot complications. These are companies that put patient care and outcomes at the forefront of what they do."
